Touchwood's agarwood investment delivers a 34.44 percent ROI!

Touchwood is proud to announce our first agarwood payout has provided investors an impressive range of profitability between 24.22 to 34.44 percent net per annum, based upon the size of initial investment (see Figure A for specifics).

Exceeding our profitability forecast, agarwood is the foundation of a multi-billion dollar global market. Due to its high value worldwide, the cultivation of agarwood through sustainable forestry has been a focal point of our product offerings here at Touchwood. In fact, we are the only company in Thailand licensed to use the patented Cultivated Agarwood Kit – a kit that produces large quantities of the highly-valued agarwood resin in every treated tree.

Agarwood... profiting from "liquid gold."

When it comes to your investment future, one size does not fit all. So we created a harvest process that enables you to select the option that is right for you. Under the careful guidance of our director of forestry, we offer two profitable avenues of harvest, delivering the absolute highest return within a guaranteed timeframe.

Option 1: Touchwood will sell your harvest on the world market.

We are currently delivering reliable, hassle-free returns to our agarwood investors by selling their aquilaria stock to vendors throughout the world for use in a wide variety of luxury goods, incense and traditional medical treatments.

Please note: Check your individual agreement for any fees that may apply.

Option 2: You can personally collect your stock.

Your investment is your own. Therefore, the process of harvesting is at your discretion. Though we have set up the most efficient way of having your returns sent straight to your designated account, we understand that some clients may have a forest manager other than Touchwood.

These investors are welcome to collect their stock within 30 days after the completion of their agreement. Under this option, you must follow the strict harvest procedures we have established when handling species grown on our land. Most notably, this includes adhering to all safety protocols. Touchwood is not responsible for any injury to outside personnel on company property. In addition, we will have a representative present to ensure that those collecting the stock on your behalf do not harm the surrounding trees in neighboring plots.

Please note:

Any client or representative of a collecting client will be billed for the full cost of any damages to Touchwood property or neighboring plots.
